

Diagram Analysis

- Critical Path outlined by arrow for DREAM 46 to DREAM 7 as it is the general case for all other dependency and is similar in nature to the connection of other features.
- To make sure sprint remains in schedule tasks have been set out so features can be implemented independently so that they can be connected to feature 7.
- It was difficult to implement these features separately, but once the structure for services was presented, it alleviated problems with implementation.
- If any unfinished tasks arised, it is due to the dependency of the database, which will be resolved as a top priority to prevent any delays in future sprints. (However as of right now, all tasks seems to work well and completely individually, and is just a matter of connecting.